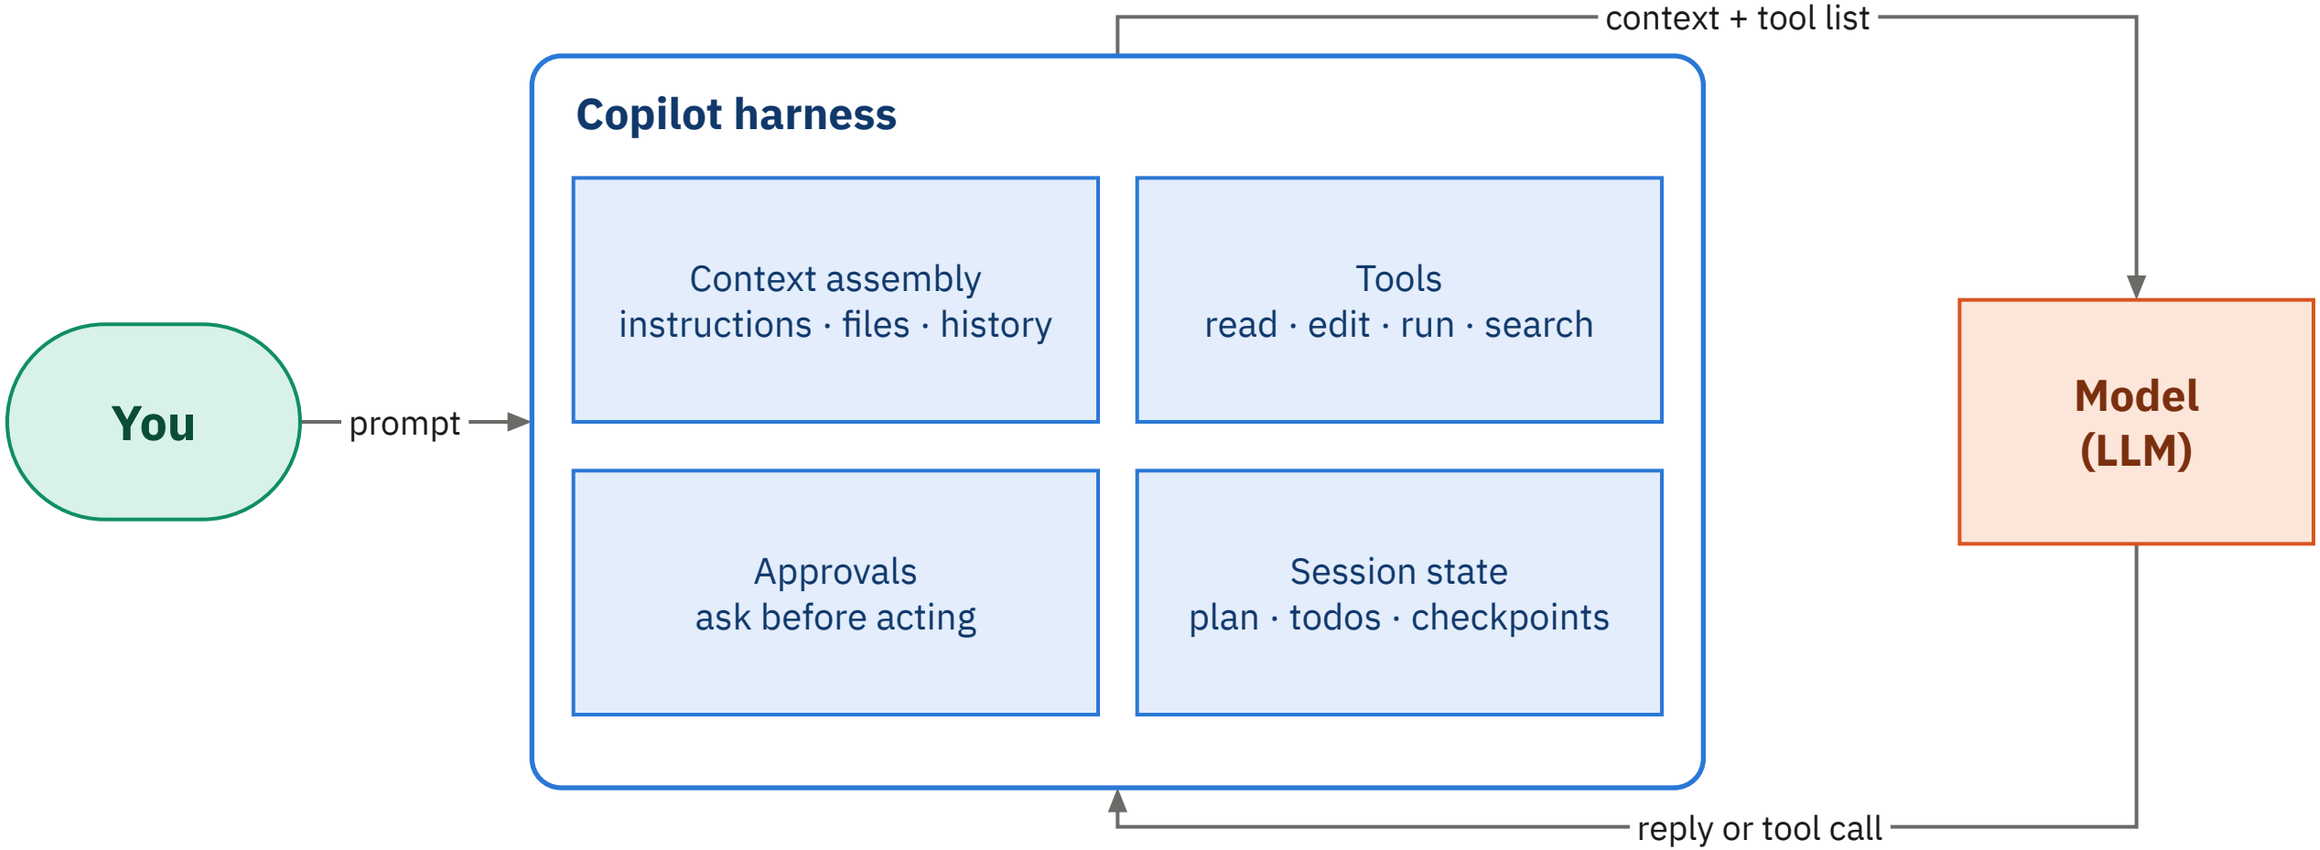
Model vs. harness: the agent loop

The model only predicts the next step. The harness around it does everything else.



Swap the model and the loop stays the same. The harness decides what the model sees and what it's allowed to do.